A Double Dose of Learning and Humor at MPI-Wisconsin Event in October

Madison, WI – Business humorist Todd Hunt will answer such timeless questions as “What time is the Noon lunch?” at The Wisconsin Chapter of Meeting Professionals International (MPI-WI) education event on October 18, 2012, at the Rotary Botanical Gardens in Janesville, WI.

Teaching through humor, Mr. Hunt will offer two popular programs -- “What Time is the Noon Lunch? Maintaining Your Sanity in the Wonderful World of Meetings,” and “Finding, Hiring and Working with Professional Speakers” – during an idea-packed afternoon from the nationally acclaimed speaker. These fun and engaging interactive sessions will leave attendees with useful tips on increasing efficiency, improving communications, making the right decisions, and building value for their events.

After the education, attendees can take a tour of some of Janesville’s top meeting spaces, including the Rock County Historical Society at the Helen Jeffris Wood Museum for a presentation on the history of the area and a gallery tour; the Janesville Performing Arts Center for a Wine & Dessert bar and a behind-the-scenes facility tour; and then conclude at The Armory Beer & Slider Bar for Comedy Night! Shuttle transportation will be provided by Van Galder Bus Company.

Those interested in registering can visit mpiwi.org for more details on this fun educational event.
